ANDREW KILPATRICK - SENIOR LECTURER , LA TROBE UNIVERSITY

The proliferation of information and communication technologies has transformed the world in which we live. In just a decade or two, the ways in which people learn, work, and communicate have changed sufficiently to suggest to many educators that young people growing up today will require a new and more demanding intellectual skill set to thrive. As a result, many experts recommend that students' educational experiences and the methods we use to assess them be reformed to better prepare students for their future.

The global emphasis on English language skills and computer literacy in schools, universities and the workplace has meant that products focusing on improving both these skill sets are very much in demand.

The TEEST is a user friendly, cost effective Online English Language Proficiency Test designed to quickly, accurately and reliably assess students English language ability from Beginner Level through to Proficient (Post Advanced Level).
